

New Website – Media Release
9/10/2018

Termax Corporation is inviting their clients and internal staff to explore our new website and online parts database. The new website has been designed to provide the ultimate user-friendly experience allowing customers quick and easy access to detailed product information and for our Account Managers to provide everything needed in a one-stop-shop.

The site will supply our entire Termax OEM Brochure with dimension charts, best practice pages for download, cross-reference pages to Tier One approved parts as well as, a 2D rendering of our parts catalogue. This website database will be updated regularly with new product and media releases, including up to date product information and resources.

“We are excited to launch our new website. The new user interface will allow our Customers to seamlessly review and search for their fastening solutions including LISI Automotive content in an interactive experience continuing with our personalized approach to Customer Service” said Chad Rickwood, Vice President of Sales and New Business Development, Termax. “This is truly a milestone in continuing forward as a Global Fastening Solutions Provider!”

The users will be able to effortlessly transition from desktop to mobile browsing, to share products and pages that interest them with coworkers or socially thanks to NYN Designs. Visit our Database or our new website to see all the changes we've completed!
